

Help us design a better future for Ontario's engineers

Engineers give shape to much that we value here in Ontario – and yet many people in Ontario have yet to recognize the full value of our work.

The Ontario Society of Professional Engineers (OSPE) has been created to speak on behalf of our 66,000 engineers, to advance our professional and economic interests, to share job opportunities and facilitate professional training through our career centre, and offer a wide range of member services and discounts through our exclusive EngineersFirst Web portal.

But we need your voice. If you haven't joined the Society as a full member, join now – and help us design a better future for Ontario's engineers.
